REAL PROPERTY LAW JOURNAL
COPYRIGHT LICENSE AND WARRANTY

To the authors ("Author(s)") of articles, reports, essays, comments, book reviews, and other content submitted for publication to the California Real Property Law Journal, a publication of the Real Property Section ("the Section") of the California Lawyers Association ("the Association"):

The Section publishes the California Real Property Law Journal in both print and electronic form (the "Journal"). The Association and the Section occasionally receive requests to reprint articles and other content appearing in the Journal and may have the opportunity to make the Journal's content accessible to the legal community and the public through commercial on-line database providers and other electronic publication and distribution media. In order to make this content available with a minimum of administrative effort and delay, and to ensure the Association has the permission it needs to carry out the public service goal of enhancing the practice of law through the publication of educational materials, the Association and the Section require, as a condition of acceptance for publication in the Journal, that an Author grant to the Association the right to make available to third parties the Author's article or other content for republication in print and electronic form, with or without charge. The grant of these rights will not affect the Author's right to full use of the article in any medium following first publication in the Journal.
